Welcome to UKSIF's Good Money Week 2025

UKSIF has been running Good Money Week since 2008, pushing to make sustainable financial choices more accessible to the average consumer and drive action and understanding in the public. This year, we have hosted events at both the Labour Party Conference and the Conservative Party Conferences, working to hold politicians to account and represent the best interests of our members, our planet and consumers.

We are working, on the industry's behalf, to counteract a sustainability backlash, enabled by populist rhetoric and funded by those most likely to lose out in a sustainable future. It's crucial to note that the public do not buy into this discourse, with our annual Good Money Week polling outlining that they still care for sustainability. We have partner events all over the country, and we are genuinely proud to provide the space for discussion and insightful conversations.

Thank you to our sponsors Liontrust and Rathbones Greenbank for making this event and this campaign possible, and thank you for coming along today.

Greenbank

Greenbank specialises in creating bespoke ethical and sustainable portfolios for high net worth private clients, trusts and charities. Our aim is to help clients achieve their aims, generating the financial returns that they need without compromising their values. We do not restrict clients to a 'one-size-fits-all' solution, but instead tailor portfolios to meet both their financial aims and their ethical, ESG or sustainability requirements. In doing this, we are committed to bringing about positive change in business practice through sustainable investment and engagement – not just because we feel that this is the responsible approach but because we believe it is also sound financially.
